CHICAGO (May 20, 2019) – EVRAZ North America welcomes the lifting of U.S. Section 232 tariffs on Canadian steel and commended the governments of Canada and the United States for reaching agreement restoring free and fair trade across North America.

“The removal of these tariffs is good for our steel workers, our customers and the interconnected economies of North America,” said Conrad Winkler, EVRAZ North America president and chief executive officer. “We thank government leaders and trade representatives of Mexico, Canada and the United States for their efforts to resolve this critical issue and foster fair trade across the continent.

“We look forward to continuing our work with the governments of Canada and the United States in support of the steel industry, the customers we partner with on both sides of the border, and North American free trade - including the ultimate passage of the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement,” Winkler added.

With approximately 4,000 employees across Canada and the United States, EVRAZ North America produces engineered steel products for North American transportation, energy and industrial markets. EVRAZ North America facilities in Regina, Saskatchewan; Calgary, Camrose, Red Deer and Edmonton, Alberta; Portland, Oregon; and Pueblo, Colorado deliver a broad selection of specialty steel solutions to meet our customers’ demands in the United States and Canada.
